Moving from the 'winter of despair' to the 'summer of hope'

Despite a year of floods, fires and pestilence, the MJA is approaching 2021 with optimism.

The MJA has played a pivotal role in the national discussion and debate about the COVID-19 pandemic, with the rapid publication of evidence-based guidelines, perspectives, and expert commentaries.

Learn more about the Medical Journal of Australia's renewed optimism on COVID-19 and Australia's response.

Community mental health care programs in Australia: a systematic review

Although numerous studies have examined the effects of community-based mental health care programs in Australia, no synthesis of this literature exists.

This review provides support for the implementation of community-based mental health care programs that are informed by both therapeutic and case management principles.
